LOT 370 - 1930s Era Gamewell Municipal Fire Alarm Box

Description

Unit was tested and appeared to be in good working order as far as can be determined. The working procedure was that when the switch was pulled, a telegraph was sent to a central fire station. Owner states that this call box was installed at the corner of Adams Avenue and Jackson Street in Camden, Arkansas in the 1930s. It was removed from service in the late 1970s. Unit also includes a key, info card listing all of the boxes in the city, and two original manuals which were at the fire dispatch headquarters.
